TEN CENTS

PYRAMID ANNOUNCES SPRING ELECTIONS

The Pyramid Honor Society has just released the news that at a recent meeting ten men of the University were elected to membership in that organization.

Election to the Pyramid is always primarily dependent upon consistent support and prominence in Student Activities and is an honor much desired among the students. As mentioned in these columns heretofore, the Pyramid has a limited membership and takes its members from among the Junior and Senior classes.

The members of the Pyramid are distinguished by the familiar little gold replica of one of the pyramids of Egypt which they wear. The elected men, not yet initiated, are identified by the buff and blue ribbon worn under their left lapels.

The men elected are:

ROBERT N. ANDERSON, a Junior in Columbian College. Bob is President of his class, a Student Assistant in History, a member of the White Squires, and was the executive head of Junior Week, in the conception and realization of which he was very prominent.

WILLIAM M. BALLINGER, a Junior in Columbian College. Bill is Treasurer of his class, an ex-officio member of the Student Council, and Editor of the 1919-1920 Cherry Tree. He has been a valuable member of the tennis team, playing in 1917-1918, 1918-1919 and 1919-1920.

WILLIAM CAMERON BURTON, a Junior in the Law School. Cam was a member of the Freshman Prom Committee in 1917-18, and played the "lead" in the George Washington Players' production the same year, "All of a Sudden Peggy." He was President of that organization in 1918-19, and was re-elected to the same office for this year. He was catcher and captain of the Law School baseball team in the Interdepartmental League last year. He is a member of the Student Council for 1919-1920. He played the "lead" in "Uncle's Will," the Players' production this year, and was Director of the Junior Week Play, and an active participant this year.

HYDE COWLEY, a Junior in the Dental School. Hyde has worn the buff and blue of George Washington on the mat on three important occasions. In 1918 he carried away South Atlantic honors in the Amateur Championship meet at Baltimore pinning his opponent to the mat in jig time. In April and May, 1917, he repeated the performance at Baltimore and Atlantic City. Not long ago he conquered the captain of the Gallaudet wrestling team. He is Captain of the George Washington wrestling team for this year.

JOHN PAUL EARNEST, a Senior in Columbian College, and a Freshman in the Medical School. John Paul has been a HATCHET reporter since 1917-18. He was Treasurer of the George Washington Players in 1918-19. He has held all the offices in the Inter-Fraternity Association, being President in 1919, and Chairman of the Interfraternity Prom Committee the same year. He is Circulation Manager of the Cherry Tree this year. Chairman of the Freshman Prom Committee, and Senior Marshal. He was a member of the Student Council from Columbian College in 1918-19, and is a member at large by reason of Faculty appointment this year.

EDWARD J. HANSON, a Junior in Columbian College, and a Junior in the Law School. Ed was manager of the Law School baseball team in the Interdepartmental League in 1918-19, and is an Assistant Manager of the Varsity team this year. He is a member of the Columbian Debating Society, and Chairman of the Athletic Committee of the

THE DEBATING TEAM

The George Washington University Debaters will argue the affirmative of the question, "Resolved, that the principle of the Closed Shop should be established in American Industry," when they meet the crack debating team from Washington and Jefferson College, at the Y. M. C. A., tomorrow night at 8:15 P. M.

A titanic effort will be made to break the Hoodoo that has kept G. W. from winning a single debate on the home floor for the past seven years. This is the final debate of the season and speculation is rife as to its outcome.

Several of the members of the Freshman class, led by Harold McCoy, CC '23, impelled by the desire to prove the fallacy of the implied assumption that the Seniors are the only ones capable enough of entering and competing in a University oratorical contest (the University contest), the Davis Prize Speaking, being limited to Seniors), are furthering a scheme to interest undergraduates in an open oratorical contest to be held in the near future.

The plan is to hold a contest, open to both men and women, at which time original orations will be delivered, in contest for a prize, which has been offered by an enthusiastic alumnus.

Dean Wilbur, of Columbian College, has heartily approved the scheme and has offered to receive the names of all those desiring to enter. Students interested should hand their names to him at once and give the proposition the impetus of their support.

Week Play. He was President of the Veterans Club for the first term of 1919-20, and is on the Senior Play Committee this year.

HARRY W. NEWMAN, a Junior in Columbian College. Harry was a member of the Enosinian Society in 1915-16, and Editor of the Enosinian News in 1916. He participated in the Enosinian-Columbian Debate in 1916. He was a member of the Chemical Society in 1915-16. This year he is an Associate Editor of the Cherry Tree, a member of the George Washington Players, and a member of the Junior Memorial Fund Committee. He was Chairman of the Junior Prom Committee this year, and was one of the co-conceivers of Junior Week.

JOHN W. TOWNSEND, a Senior in the Law School. John was Chairman of the First Year Law Class Dance in 1917-18, and held the same office when the Second Year Law Class gave its dance in 1918-19. He was a member of the Law School Banquet Committee in 1918-19. He was a reporter for the

FIRST BASEBALL GAME SATURDAY

George Washington for the first time since 1915 will send a varsity baseball team on a diamond. The team meets Catholic University next Saturday afternoon at 3:30 P. M. in Brookland.

The baseball squad has had but two weeks' practice, but speculation and rumors have it that the Buff and Blue will give the Brooklanders a sharp tussel. Catholic University defeated the University of Vermont team last Saturday by a score of 6-1.

Coach McFall has been whipping the material into a semblance of a team during the practice and hopes to put a well-balanced team on the field.

Pitching material is plentiful. Ballinger, Burneston, Hanna and Lootz have reported at the time of this writing and Shafer and Adams are expected to back up the offerings of future Johnsons.

John Ladd, the manager, has arranged a schedule to include some of the strongest teams near Washington.

The thus far arranged schedule is as follows:

April 3—Catholic University, at Brookland.
April 21—Georgetown, at Georgetown.
April 27—Maryland State University, at College Park, Md.
April 28—Gallaudet College, at Kendall Green.
May 1—St. John's College, at Washington, D. C.
May 5—Catholic University, at Brookland.
May 8—Gallaudet College, at Kendall Green.
May 15—Rock Hill College, at Ellicott City, Md.
May 18—Georgetown University, at Georgetown.

BOTELER CAPTAIN NEXT YEAR

Charles M. Boteler, Law, '22, has been elected captain of next year's basketball team.

Mr. Boteler has played left guard on the Buff and Blue since 1917, with the exception of one year during which time he was in the Service.

Mr. Boteler is a graduate of Eastern High School, where he played on the team for three years and was captain in 1917. He also played in the Phi Mu Sigma League of the District in 1917.

He is a member of Sigma Chi.

Dr. Edward Elliott Richardson, head of the University Department of Philosophy, expects to go to New Orleans some time this month to address the Southern Philosophical Society, meeting at Tulane University, on the "Real as Self Activity."

Dr. Richardson spoke before the Cosmos Club on March 23, on the "Fundamentals of Roman Philosophy" and last Saturday before the Washington Classical Club on the "Fundamentals of Greek Philosophy."

G. W. vs. C. U., at Brookland, Saturday, 3:30 P. M.

Mr. Philbrick McCoy entertained the "Severn and Severn-eights Club" at a bridge party on Monday, March 15. Those present were Misses Marie and Emily Dowell, Lois McDaris and Miss Ruelle, Messrs. Juul, Barlow and Percy McCoy.

HATCHET in 1918-19, and holds that office this year. He holds the office of Secretary of the Interfraternity Association this year, and is also Chairman of the Interfraternity Prom Committee. He is a Senior Marshal for the year 1919-20.

WASHINGTON, D. C. APRIL 1, 1920

KEEP ALIVE THE SPIRIT

The plan to revive Football at the University has come within one step of final ratification or rejection. The President's Council was to consider it Wednesday and the Board of Trustees at some time next week. It has taken some time for the plan to come before the Board, inasmuch as several bodies had to consider its merits and recommend accordingly, and there has been consequently quite an interim of waiting since the appearance of the Football Hatchet and the expressions of the student body in it.

Never before has such great interest and enthusiasm been manifest in George Washington as has been called forth by this sentiment to re-establish the King of Sports. Never before has the student body been so united on one proposition, never before has it been willing and anxious to express its commendation or to offer its unstinted support to the success of a project.

The spirit was remarkable during the time when every student had the word "Football" on his tongue's end, and "football" was the topic of the day. But now during a period of waiting and uncertainty, this same remarkable spirit will have an excellent chance to lose some of its force and the issue at stake become passé—a casually-thought-of matter.

This condition must not exist for a moment. Spirit is what has brought the movement to such apparent success, and lack of spirit is what may deter the movement in its hour of fulfillment. Keep the spirit of the students alive and keen and the plan will stand a better chance of ratification.

Keep alive YOUR spirit, and the plan will live!

There are two kinds of jokes that the students laugh at—the funny ones and the ones that the professors spring.

THE THIRST FOR ORATORY.

In the old days, when oratory was the gift of the favored, Demosthenes walked the beach with pebbles under his tongue to overcome the physical handicap, in order that he might take his place among the leaders of his nation. Henry Clay, with like motive, developed his natural powers by orating before the humble animal life of his father's farm.

The thirst for the great power of oratory, which enables man to sway huge audiences and change the fate of nations, is age old. Man in his development from the cave man to the present high state of civilization, has sought the power that distinguishes him from his compatriots and enables him to gain leadership over them. The late Senator Hoar from Massachusetts has said that the ability to a perfect and consummate orator is the greatest gift that God can bestow upon man.

But of later years, in the mad rush for money, oratory has come to be a lost art. Our students are seeking the course of least resistance which will bring them material rather than intellectual returns. However, as a striking contrast to the present tendencies of the day, we find that the Freshmen have a plan under contemplation whereby opportunities will be offered for underclassmen to cultivate and develop their oratorical inclinations.

This is a most commendable plan inasmuch as it offers an incentive as well as an opportunity for students to manifest their latent powers and rival the orators of old.

It seems that in order to become a successful law student one must wear a judicious expression and carry a brief case.

THE DEBATERS NEED SUPPORT

George Washington's Debating Team argues in its final effort of the year when it takes the stand on the principle of the "Closed Shop" against the redoubtable Washington and Jefferson Team at the "Y" tomorrow night.

George Washington has been exceptionally unlucky on its home

PERSONAL—In answer to Miss Phoeby Coed.

DEAR MISS COED:

Of course it would be both inappropriate and undiplomatic for me to answer your letter in such a public place as the columns of "THE HATCHET"—but if you will send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope (or your telephone number) I would be glad to address a reply to you.

DEAR MR. STEPHAN:

Where is the best place to roll easter eggs on Easter Monday?

Answer: On the ground.

DEAR STEVIE:

Do you believe in love at first sight?
Answer: Yeh! But it depends a whole lot who you're looking at. And listen, cut out that "Stevie" stuff.

DEAR STUPE:

What is the best way to dye Easter eggs?

Answer: If you buy some at about $40 a dozen, you will find them already dyed.

MY DEAR MR. STEPHAN:

I desire to take a few minutes of your valuable time if you will be so indulgent, and address to you a communication relative to formulating a complaint with regard to the treatment, or rather, if I may refer to one of those cheap forms of wit; to wit: a pun, the mis-treatment of the male students by the co-educational students. Citing an example: The other day I had an appointment with one of the other sex to meet her at 3 p. m. at the establishment of a certain vender of frozen dainties on F street. I arrived at the rendezvous with about 2 minutes to spare before the allotted time and if I may be so coarse as to employ a term, which I have been reliably informed is in great usage in the United States Navy, "stood by" for the time of one-half hour. At the expiration of which time, much to my surprise, chagrin, and discomfort, I floor for a period extending over seven years, during which time it has not won a single debate. The teams in the field, competing against colleges out of town, have come out victorious in the majority of instances, but the teams at home have been under the influence of a Man-Sized Jinx or Hoodoo and have seen only the short end of the scale.

The present Debating Team has worked hard with the excellent material its members offer, to break the uncanny influence of the Bad Luck. The team is composed of three men who are quite capable of upholding the arguments for the "Closed Shop." One of the members is an Oxford man and spent some time with the British Recruiting Mission, speaking in behalf of the recruiting service. Another was one of the famous Four Minute Men in the Liberty Loan Drives, while the third, though a newcomer to the ranks of inter-collegiate debating, gives promise of great things.

The only thing needed to make the debate a great success from every standpoint is for the student body to turn out in full force and give the men their hearty support.

With a good representation of students to back the efforts of the men and with the excellent chances they themselves offer, the prospects are good for G. W.—and black for the Jinx!

Many of the Engineers could dredge Long Island SOUND, but could they MUFFLE it? We hope that this isn't too deep.

We think that the Dentists would make quite a success in the social world as their specialty is bridge work.

There are always two sides to a question—our side and the wrong side.

We wonder if the HATCHET was used on the flag pole which used to decorate the back campus. Or maybe they are getting the ground ready for the Cherry Tree.

"TYPICALS"

The "Typicals" around G. W. are enough to give a professional typist like me the rabies. They grow on every rail and radiator, each classroom chair and library loafing bench, and classification threatens us with henna.

Among the lady "Tipes" blossom the stude, she of the ethereal smile whose distinguishing mark is the haste with which she hastens to reply when the Prof. inquires "Who knows?" She inhabits the deep water of the first row in class, and the shoals of the library. She is not a grind she just overflows with intellect.

A grind is a "Tipe" nobody will admit he is. There are lots like that.

The marcelled "Tipe" is the joy tho! It's hair is its trademark, it's smile its stock in trade. It can dance and it can talk, and it will lean sociably against the radiators for indefinite hours for your sake. It dwells in certain places—chiefly all over the U.

The rest will have to wait—their samples, and I pass to the less deadly, etc.

Lack of football has deprived us of that pride and joy—the athletic hero—Ah me! But we do pretty well if we do say so ourselves. We have a whole bevy of fussers—incurable, perennial and gorgeous to gaze upon—aren't they? They decorate the front of the campus and the back of the class-hall. We have some "hustlers" too. They don't know how important they are because they are to busy being presidents and things. We have some serious ones—they are truly endeavoring to better themselves, I don't criticize them if they feel that way, it's to their credit, as the man said of the burglar who had emptied his cellar. And so it goes.

LADIES WORST MEN IN DEBATE.

Men will admit without hesitation that a woman can outtalk a man just as much as a flivver can outrun a wheelbarrow, but that is as far as the admission goes. He will not say that she can speak more wisdom or common sense. He merely refers to quantity. He will gladly admit that in any given discourse a woman can get in a bushel of words to a man's peck, but only will he admit this with the mental reservation that the said bushel of vocabulary would only probably fill a pint of wisdom, whereas the man's peck of verbal utterances are so succulent, pithy, an sentiment that they are capable of such development and expansion as to fill a barrel with wisdom. This beautiful theoretic bubble of the "genus homo" was exploded by the female debaters at last Friday's meeting of the Columbia Debating Society. Miss Mayme Hamrick and Miss Florence Bell, maintaining the affirmative of the proposition that a "literacy test should be established for all voters," spoke more wisdom than all the male debaters there, winning their side of the argument and incidentally copping first and second honors. Miss Hamrick and Miss Bell led forth a legion of facts, officered by systematic logic, all of which they commanded with such generalship qualities in attack that they steam-rolled over the opponents with such tremendous effect as to leave them gasping. After catching a breath the male forces rallied and tried to stop the havoc being made to their defenses by the affirmative's army, but their arguments were weak and the females marched off the field of verbal combat victors—or victoreesses.

This debate well showed that men cannot any more feel that they need not put forth their best efforts merely because their opponents are of the opposite sex. The girls are showing that they can wield fact and logic with the same dexterity as a man can swing a sledge hammer—and with as telling effect, too. In law courts and parliamentary halls they will make male antagonists feel that woman's ascendancy is in many fields.

The Columbia Debating Society meets every Friday, although it will not have its regular session April 2 on account of the intercollegiate debate at the Y. M. C. A. Girls from the Arts and Sciences Department are invited to attend the meetings and take part in the debates.

CHERRY TREE NOT ON SALE AFTER PUBLICATION

A rumor is afloat that copies of the Cherry Tree will be on sale in the different buildings of the University after their publication. Like most rumors, this one is empty and without foundation. No one desiring a copy of the book which sums up for them the activities of the student body of George Washington for the year 1920 should be misled by it.

Not a copy of the year-book will be for sale. The business staff made this clear in a former issue of THE HATCHER and takes this opportunity to again bring out this point. The staff does not purpose to be left with several hundred dollars' worth of books on its hands in order to oblige ten of twelve students who failed to subscribe at the proper time. Should there be any students desiring a copy of the Cherry Tree who have not been approached by solicitors in the prize contest, they will find subscription blanks at their disposal in the office of their University building.

The number of subscriptions to the Cherry Tree which has been received to date guarantees absolutely the success of the University annual for this year. Contestants for the prize offered by the business staff are experiencing no difficulty in obtaining subscriptions from the students and friends of the University. The greatest difficulty remaining is to see that all persons wishing to obtain a copy shall be given every opportunity to do so.

All students wishing to acquaint themselves with the workings of the business end of the publication of the Cherry Tree in order that they might receive positions on the staff of the 1921 copy should get in touch with Thomas E. Lodge at once. He may be found at both the morning and evening classes of the Law School or at the Y. M. C. A. after the evening classes.

Richard Francis Wood and Miss Ada Adele Harry will be married at the Western Presbyterian Church on April 7. Dick graduated at the Law School last year. He is a member of Sigma Chi and Phi Delta Phi.

SENIOR CLASSES TO HAVE PARTY

The Senior classes of all the colleges of the University are to have a party, Thursday, April 22, at Lisner Hall, 2023 G Street N. W. The committee in charge is planning a program to be composed of various "stunts" by talent in the class, which will be followed by dancing, "eats," and a general good time. It is to be hoped that every Senior will take advantage of this opportunity to meet his classmates and to have a part in the discussion of plans for a successful Senior Week in June. To make this undertaking a credit to the class of 1920, the interest and support of every Senior is needed.

An interesting feature of the evening's entertainment will be the awarding of a prize for the best poster advertising the Senior party. If you are gifted with any ability in this line of art, be sure to enter the contest and hand in your poster at once to Mr. Harding, Chairman of the Publicity Committee.

Above all, as Seniors of the University, no matter what College you belong to, remember that this is your class and your school, and that it is up to you to be there and help toward the success of the party.

Mr. C. Francis Jenkins, who developed the Graphoscope Projecting Machine, and who has been associated with the motion picture industry for a number of years, will address the Engineering Society on "The Technical Features of the Motion Picture," and "A History of the Industry," at the regular meeting of the Society in the Chapel of Lisner Hall on the evening of April 12.

Mr. Jenkins will show a motion picture, depicting the process of picture making, from the scenario to the finished print. He will also show a reel of Washington as seen from an aeroplane.

All students are cordially invited to the lecture.

A-C-E DANCE

Starting at 8 P. M. on April 29th and ending at 1 A. M. on the following morning, the Architects, Chemists and Engineers will trip the light fantastic in the Crystal Room of the New Ebbit. All Students and Shimmy Dancers are invited to attend provided that they can produce at the door a piece of cardboard for which they had previously paid two and one-half iron men, bucks, berries or other medium of exchange of the value of $2.50. The above mentioned cardboards may be purchased from Miss Margaret M. Preinkert of the chemical society, Miss Olive Prescott of the Architectural Club, and Walter Clifford Scott, Chairman of the committee and member of the Engineering Society.

The committee informs us that they have an orchestra engaged for the evening which was trained by Professor Jazz himself, and that refreshments will be served during the course of the evening to all who have a lean and hungry look.

The Chemical Society of George Washington University is to hold its Annual Banquet at the Monmouth Hotel April 7, at 8:30 P. M. Among those who will be present as guests of the Society are President Collier and a number of the Faculty members. An excellent menu, to be followed by an entertainment of unusual merit, is promised. In order to make this banquet one of the biggest and most successful events of the season, every member of the Society, as well as its friends and supporters, should be present.

Editor THE HATCHET, G. W. U.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir—Let the slogan of every loyal rooter of his or her Alma Mater be "A greater George Washington University." Let us today spread the propaganda that tomorrow we may reap the full benefits. What is there today that we need most? This may be answered by each department. But by every department as in one voice—a gymnasium and athletic field. A gymnasium equipped with all the facilities for building up a stronger body and clearer mind for mastering the complex problems of college and business life. In all universities and colleges without an exception, where the students are under the jurisdiction of the school, athletic training is compulsory for all unless otherwise prescribed by a physician. Systematic training is widely considered essential to the welfare of all. What did the statistics of the draft boards show? Did they find it simple to find an army of physically fit men? Are we going to wake up to this fact? Are we going to raise the average length of a man's life and usefulness? Is it not true that the country folk are crowding into the city, adding to the crowded conditions? These people are deprived of getting back to nature as it were. Are we going to send our young men into the business world unprepared to cope with these conditions or succumb to the many plagues contracted by close quarters and not able to resist them because of poor health?

It has been said that F Street is the Campus of G. W. U. Perhaps we can not contradict that statement, but we may change it. The ideal site is in Potomac Park between the War Munitions Buildings and the Naval Hospital. This site overlooks the Potomac River and the Lincoln Memorial. How could a University bearing the name that it does and having passed through a struggle which has caused the older members of the faculty much effort and anxiety that has brought the Alma Mater closer to the hearts of all who know and understand. Mr. Martinson's letter to THE HATCHET of December 11, 1919, clearly states the feasibility of using certain buildings used during the war for the purpose of dormitories and class rooms.

Let us open a drive! Would it behoove any wide awake business man to contribute to a cause which would give Washington a great stadium, athletic field, cinder track, rowing crew, gymnasium and swimming pool. Can we interest Congress, perhaps through the American Legion, to give us this land, or by some feasible arrangement, so that we may have a campus and a greater G. W. U.? Let us build the gymnasium and athletic field overlooking the Potomac River. Around which we may build the class rooms, libraries, museums, hospital, law school, dormitories and fraternity houses. Let us not consider this a pipe dream but a reality in which we may look forward to when G. W. U. will have an enviable football and baseball season.

Is there a city better adopted to have a National University where one may obtain a most thorough education, obtaining, as it were, the phenomenons of science? Or a city better suited to train a man in the profession of a lawyer. So let it be resolved to do today all that we might in bringing this to the attention of those who by their efforts will be able to make this possible so that their children and their children's children may be a finer race of boys and girls.

Sincerely yours,
GEORGE E. GRAHAM, Eng. '23.
